

Privacy & Data-Processing Summary

Version v0.2 | 2026-07-24 | Draft summary

Public summary for evaluation. It is not an executed agreement, a warranty, or a certification. Final scope, controls, residency, and terms are defined in your order form, data-processing agreement, and counsel-reviewed contract, which control over this document.

01

Scope

This summary explains, in plain terms, how business data is handled in Jueni Biashara AI. Your executed data-processing agreement and published privacy policy control; where they differ from this summary, they prevail.

02

What data and why

We process the business records you put in - such as invoices, payments, stock, customer follow-up, and documents - for the purpose of running your workspace and providing your service. We do not seek passwords, and the early-access form asks you not to submit confidential data.

03

Not used to train others' models

Your business records are used to run your workspace, not quietly poured into training someone else's model. Any use of data beyond operating your service is stated in your agreement and requires your consent. Where advanced cloud AI is involved, the options and boundaries are labelled before anything is switched on.

04

Residency and subprocessors

Hosting region and subprocessors are specified in your agreement. Mbunifu Huru can be scoped so processing stays in an environment you control.

05

Your rights and export

The records you put in remain yours. Your agreement sets out how you access, correct, and export your data, including if you leave. A department scope you generate is a readable manifest, not a black box.

06

Boundary

This is a public summary during beta and is not legal advice. Bring your data-protection and legal advisers to the scope conversation; the executed agreement is the source of truth.
